

COURSE CONTENT OVERVIEW

Human Trafficking and Modern Slavery

Human Trafficking involves transporting people from one location to another for the sole purpose of exploitation through various types of modern slavery. Anyone can become a victim of human trafficking and modern slavery, although some people may be more at risk than others.

Our online Human Trafficking and Modern Slavery course is designed to provide a greater awareness of the methods used by organisations to recruit and exploit victims. It also explains who is most at risk and how to report concerns linked to human trafficking and modern slavery. This course is suitable for first responders and also learners working in a wide variety of industries and organisations, where awareness of human trafficking and modern slavery may be beneficial.

Module One: Understanding Human Trafficking and Modern Slavery

This module outlines what human trafficking is and what the various types of modern slavery are, as well as how both of these things happen around the world and in the UK. It also examines who may be most at risk of becoming a victim and explains how organisations can produce a modern slavery statement.

- Statistics
- What is modern slavery?
- What is human trafficking?
- Who is at risk?
- Modern slavery statements
- How to write a modern slavery statement

Module Two: Recognising Methods and Indicators

This module provides a deeper insight into the methods used to recruit victims of human trafficking. It also covers the types of modern slavery in more detail, including the industries in which exploitation can occur and the signs and indicators which suggest these things may be taking place.

- Human trafficking methods
- Types of modern slavery
- Signs that modern slavery is taking place
- General indicators

Module Three: Responding to Concerns and Disclosures

This module explains the various ways that you can effectively report any concerns you may have and also outlines the best way to respond to a disclosure from a victim. This module allows you to choose your learning pathway, depending on whether you are a first responder or not.

- First Responders
- The National Referral Mechanism
- Responding to and referring a disclosure or concerns
- What happens next
- Further support

Aims of the training

By the end of this course, learners can:

- Explain what human trafficking and modern slavery are and the methods used to exploit individuals.
- Identify the different types of exploitation and recognise the signs associated with each one.
- Respond to individuals who have made a disclosure.
- Take steps to begin safeguarding individuals who are the victims of human trafficking or modern slavery.